SEAL TRAINING COURSE DESCRIPTION

The Sea Scout Experience Advanced Leadership (SEAL) training program is a course designed to teach leadership skills while at sea. SEAL is not a seamanship course. It is designed to “jump start” junior leaders of new Ships and to tune up leaders from more experienced ships. SEAL is a hard core, tough, physically and mentally demanding course. Applicants for SEAL must prepare themselves, because we do not have time to teach seamanship. Preparation consists of studying the Safety & Seamanship chapter and appendix of the current 12th edition of the Sea Scout Manual and completing the provided study guide. Students must be able to perform basic coastal navigation on paper and must be able to tie all knots required for Apprentice and Ordinary ranks. Scouts must know the basic nomenclature of a sailing vessel, helm commands, and relative bearings. All information is in the Sea Scout Manual. You can be successful in this course even if you have only been in Sea Scouts for a few months. However you must be willing to learn and work hard at preparation.

To assist the student with preparation, two tests will be forwarded to your unit leader. One test is on Safety & Seamanship Chapter of the current Sea Scout Manual and the other is a test of basic coastal navigation. The navigation test consists of setting a course, computing speed, time and distance, compass error, fix by two lines of position and finding latitude and longitude. These tests are used to determine the applicant’s state of readiness. The Skipper can tell if the applicant needs more help before he or she reports for SEAL training. A copy of the two exams will be sent to the Skipper shortly after the application deadline. The Skipper’s evaluation of the potential participant’s readiness to undergo this training is of the utmost importance. Page three of this application consists of an admonition and instructions to the unit leader regarding evaluation of the applicant. Preparation and full readiness regarding the knowledge of seamanship as set out in the Safety & Seamanship Chapter of the Sea Scout Manual and coastal piloting is absolutely essential prior to arrival at the training site.

The skills taught are Preparing, Training, Supervising, Motivating, Problem solving, Communicating, Coordinating, Commanding, Delegating, Evaluating and Implementing. These skills are taught through group discussion followed by planning and then implementing the skills underway. When we discuss and teach such skills as Training or Supervising, we also discuss the situation in the local unit, school or job. These skills will apply to everything you do in life. Each applicant must be physically fit, emotionally mature, and arrive with a positive attitude. If the student travels from outside the course area, he or she must be mature enough to travel to and from a designated meeting place in the airport. We can pick up students at curbside, but we cannot meet them at the plane. They must collect their luggage alone and walk to curb side at the baggage terminal. Students must be prepared to operate in remote areas on the open ocean. We treat the students with respect and as adults. We expect adult performance. All BSA rules apply. There will be no use of alcohol, drugs, or tobacco products by Scouts or adults. Young men and women are placed on the same boat, with a highly qualified Skipper and adult instructors, at least one of each gender (for coed courses).

PARENT AND STUDENT CERTIFICATION

I will be able to compute speed, time and distance problems and that I know the rules of the road. I will be: an Ordinary Sea Scout, a Venturing Pathfinder or a 1st Class Boy Scout by June 1st prior to this course.

I, the parent of the above applicant, certify that my son or daughter is in good physical condition and is sufficiently mature to function in this “adult” type training situation, with long hours and hard mental and physical work. I understand that if selected, this course will cost between $250 and $290 plus the cost of transit to the course location and the cost of two work uniforms consisting of pants / shorts, work shirt, belt and deck shoes. I understand it is my responsibility to get my child to and from the vessel at the course location. I feel that my son or daughter is mature and capable enough to travel alone to the locations of the training vessel.

I know he or she is fully prepared as a skilled navigator and has completed study of the required chapters of the Sea Scout Manual.

I understand that lack of preparation will lead to failure of this course. I understand that once I am accepted and pay the course fee that there will be no refund.

UNIT LEADER CERTIFICATION OF SEAL APPLICANT

Skipper/Scoutmaster/Advisor:

This is an advanced leadership training course. You are sending an applicant whom you believe will make a good ship's Boatswain. This applicant must be Ordinary/First Class/Pathfinder by June 1st of the class year. He or she must have a complete knowledge of the Safety & Seamanship Chapter of the current 12th edition Sea Scout Manual and must be able to perform basic coastal navigation. We are looking for a fair and honest evaluation of the applicant in terms of his/her ability in seamanship, coastal piloting, and maturity. There will be no time to teach basic seamanship skills. What we will try to do is to return to you a Scout who is equipped with management tools and who will fire up your unit and be ready to move into the Boatswain/Senior Patrol Leader/President position. To do this, you must provide us with a Scout who is well trained in basic seamanship and piloting skills. We will send you two sample tests that cover these subjects. You must give your applicant additional training prior to the SEAL class and use these tests to help you and the applicant determine whether he/she is sufficiently prepared.

If you cannot rate your applicant '8' or higher in nearly every category, your applicant needs additional training.
